I'm pretty sure that it was the 1993 Pride when Elias Farajaje-Jones was the Keynote Speaker. Some folks were upset because he was bisexual and some didn't like him because he is black and cherokee. I always found him to be very inspiring myself and I wish he could have stayed in the 'Nasti to help us figure some stuff out. I first met him at the MOW 93 when I got to sit next to him during an AIDS demo. We had chained ourselves to a coffin and Elias taught me that I could make the cops have to start their sawing all over again simply by shrugging, laughing or coughing. He has changed his name to Ibrahim Abdurrahman Farajajé, btw. Here's a link to the best page I could find about him: http://www.sksm.edu/faculty/ibrahim_farajaje.php
